TO SAVE SULZERNew York Governor's Friends
Opposing Impeachment.

VOTE WILL BE VERY CLOSE

Story in Circulation That Governor's Wife Speculated in Wall Street With Democratic Campaign Funds and With Her Husband's Money Adds Interest to Proceedings in the Assembly.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Statements that Mrs. Sulzer, wife of Governor Sulzer, had speculated in Wall street with Democratic campaign funds and with her husband's money, filtered into the assembly and served to postpone a vote on the resolution of Majority Leader Levy to impeach the executive.

On Representative Hinman's motion to defer action on the resolution of impeachment until a later session, so that Mrs. Sulzer could have an opportunity to deny or affirm the stories current, the vote stood against the motion.

On the motion to reconsider the assembly majority lacked three votes of the seventy-six necessary to impeach the governor.

Friends of the governor are using every method to delay consideration of the impeachment resolution.

Telegraphic commands to absentees were kept flowing over the wires and bore fruit in the arrival of a squad of assemblymen from New York, sufficient, in the opinion of Majority Leader Levy, to make good the lack of eleven votes necessary to impeach.

Vast Throng at Capitol.

While deputy sergeants-at-arms hurried through Albany with summonses to compel every assemblyman in the city to be present and self-appointed committees met in various trains a throng eclipsing any that has stormed the capitol in the memory of the oldest attendant poured through its stone doorways.

The galleries were packed, while hundreds of persons were shut out when the doors were locked. Many women were among the crowd.

The capitol orderlies, unable to handle the crowd in the corridors, were hastily reinforced by uniformed men from police headquarters.

Admission to the chamber was by card only and hundreds bearing cards were turned away.

Long before the hour for meeting indications were the session would be stormy and prolonged. Minority Leader Hinman, Assemblyman Schaap, Progressive leader, Louis Gibbs, independent Democrat, and others planned to fight the program of the majority on every technicality and with every parliamentary weapon in their power.

Every barrier that could be interposed to delay the resolution, these leaders planned, should be interposed. In vivid contrast to the brilliant lights and activity within the assembly chamber were the quiet and darkness in the private office of Governor Sulzer.

Sulzer Keeping in Touch.

After a day spent in consultation with his counsel and friends, the governor left the executive chamber for dinner. He and Mrs. Sulzer were in touch with proceedings over the telephone.

With sixty-five votes at their command on the first test of strength and more coming in every hour the majority leaders showed no wavering in their plan to put through the program of impeachment.

On the eve of the governor's probable impeachment the story was spread broadcast throughout the capital that Mrs. Sulzer had assumed all blame for the revelations brought out by the Frawley investigating committee concerning the governor's transactions in Wall street.

Mrs. Sulzer's statement was made, according to this story to Senator Palmer. She is quoted as having told him: "I am wholly to blame for this whole affair."

Although the story was the property of the city apparently no one could be found who would be quoted as confirming it.

Governor Sulzer referred all inquiries to Senator Palmer, who declined either to confirm or deny it.

M'ADOO SEEKS INFORMATION

Secretary of the Treasury Calls for Condition of National Banks at Close of Business Aug. 9 and Asks for Detailed Information Regarding All Money Loaned or Borrowed.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Banks which borrow or loan money for speculative purposes will be denied any portion of the $50,000,000 of government funds about to be deposited in the national banks to assist in moving the crops and the entire amount will go to institutions that entirely strive to meet the currency demands of the agricultural sections.

This policy of the treasury department was announced when Acting Comptroller Kane, in connection with a call for the condition of national banks at the close of business Aug. 9, asked every national bank in the country to report detailed information of all money loaned or borrowed.

Upon the basis of this data, expected to be available in time for the distribution of the $50,000,000, the treasury department will aim to differentiate between the banks which borrow or loan in connection with speculative operators or are chronic borrowers and those which endeavor to relieve financial strain wherever it exists.

Information of this character, it was announced, will now regularly be obtained by the comptroller of the currency as a feature of his calls for the condition of national banks that the treasury department may know what sections of the country are in need of additional circulation at various periods of the year.

This innovation is the forerunner of other material changes in the character of information banks will be required in future to furnish the government.

STATE LABELS SEED GRAIN

North Dakota's New Inspection Is Under Way.

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 13.—The first crop and field inspection by Pure Seed Commissioner Bolley of this state for the purpose of locating suitable grain supplies for the succeeding year's crops is under way. The legislature last winter passed a law authorizing the work.

On demands of farmers the growing or shocked grain is inspected by the commissioner or his assistants. The grain from these fields, when threshed, is sealed and the sale authorized with a marking as to its relative percentage of purity.

The grain from inspected fields is graded and catalogued and when prospective buyers write the department they are referred to the owners of the inspected fields.

SCHRANK CAN'T QUIT ASYLUM

Roosevelt's Assailant Must Defend Interests Through Counsel.

Oshkosh, Wis., Aug. 13.—Dr. Adin Sherman, superintendent of the Northern Hospital for the Insane, said that John Schrank, who attempted to assassinate Theodore Roosevelt in Milwaukee, will not be removed from the hospital except upon order of the municipal court from which he was committed.

Schrank is involved in bankruptcy proceedings in New York city and a foreclosure has been started on a flat building which is mortgaged.

Dr. Sherman says Schrank may see an attorney and that he may arrange to be represented in the proceedings.

CIRCUS TRAIN WRECK FATAL

Forty-two Injured, Three Fatally, in Collision at Richfield, Neb.

Omaha, Aug. 13.—Thirteen persons, all circus employees, whose train was struck at Richfield, Neb., by a Rock Island passenger equipment train returning from the Denver conclave, were brought to the Clarkson hospital in this city, all suffering fatal or serious injuries. At the hospital it was stated that three would die.

Twenty-nine other injured also were brought to Omaha. The injuries of these consisted of bruises and cuts. The circus train was pulling onto the side track at Richfield, but had not cleared the main line when the passenger train struck it.

President Pardons Convict.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Convicted of the innocence of Lawrence Golden of Omaha, who is serving a life term for the holdup of a Union Pacific train near Omaha in November, 1909, when a mail car was robbed and the mail clerks injured, President Wilson granted the prisoner a full pardon. Recently two of Golden's alleged confederates confessed, exonerating him.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 13.—Henry D. Clayton, member of congress from the Third district of Alabama, was named by Governor O'Neal as United States senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Joseph F. Johnston.

Mr. Clayton accepted the appointment and announced that he would leave for Washington at once to present his credentials to the senate.

He will not resign his seat in the house until after he is seated in the senate.

SUFFRAGE CAUSES
WOMEN TO HESITATEMay Not Form National Catholic
Women's League.

Milwaukee, Aug. 13.—The formation of a national Catholic Women's league, after a strenuous campaign of two years and after receiving the approval of Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee, almost was given a sudden blow here when it was reported that the women's delegates voted behind closed doors not to form a league, but to remain members of the American Federation of Catholic Societies, an organization which embodies both men and women.

The decision of the women, it is said, was the result of a stormy session in which the vote was close.

Archbishop Messmer's decree that woman suffrage must not be discussed in the meetings is said to be the chief reason for the split. A majority of the delegates to the meeting are reported to have been in favor of the woman suffrage.

The decision of the women was a surprise to the vast number of Catholic delegates and disheartened here attending the twelfth annual convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies.

Socialism, immoral dances, anti-Catholic press reports and the action of mine owners in Lead, S. D., were scored in the adoption of resolutions.

REPUBLICANS SEE
DISASTER AHEADBut Democrats Are Busy Re-
futing Tariff Predictions.

IT'S A NECK AND NECK RACE

Election of 1910 Was Forerunner of
That in 1912, and the Tariff Was the Explanation of It—Combining Votes of Taft and Roosevelt Against Revision Is Begging the Question.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Aug. 13.—[Special.]—The prediction and denial departments of the two principal parties to the tariff debate are running overtime. The Republicans are constantly predicting dire disaster as a result of the tariff legislation. The Democrats are just as busy denying and refuting these predictions. Meanwhile the country waits with some impatience the closing up of the tariff discussion and the enactment of the tariff bill.

It is a foregone conclusion that the tariff bill is going through substantially as it has been reported from the senate committee. The changes that will be made are of small consequence. It has been known ever since the Democrats swept the country in the election of 1910 that the tariff was to be revised on Democratic lines, so the country has been aware of what that meant for quite a long time.

Begging the Question.

The election of 1910 expressed dissatisfaction with the tariff bill which the Republicans had enacted. That election was a forerunner of Democratic success in 1912. Scarcely any man of good political judgment expected the Republicans to win in 1912. Even if there had not been a party split Democratic success seemed to be assured long before the conventions named candidates.

Therefore it seems like begging the question on the tariff question to add the votes of Taft and Roosevelt together and assert that the verdict was not in favor of Democratic tariff revision. It has been inevitable.

Who "Wised Up" Wilson?

"The fellow who 'wised up' Wilson on that lobby proposition ought to have a good reward," remarked a member of the house rather slangily. "That lobby talk, more particularly about sugar and the developments that money was spent lavishly to maintain a duty on sugar and also that the manufacturers had maintained a lobby for their protection, was just what was needed to put the tariff bill through the senate. Before that time there were Democrats talking about holding out for protection on sugar and wool, but they gave it up when Wilson sprung his lobby sensation. While it was proved that the sugar trust had also spent money lavishly to secure free sugar, that cut mighty little figure as against the main facts sustaining the president's original content."

"The Denial Courtroom."

Shakespeare had it the "retort courteous" and the "lie direct." But Senator Stone, replying to Senator Penrose, made his the "denial courteous." Said the Missouri senator, "This emphatically denies the accuracy of the information upon which the senator from Pennsylvania predicated his statement." Now, that is real senatorial courtesy.

Just a Lewis Suggestion.

This is the way James Hamilton Lewis suggested that Senator Gronna suspend his speech for the day:

"Mr. President, may I interrupt the distinguished senator from North Dakota? Having heard him state that he has not finished more than half of his very well prepared, studious oration upon this subject, I should like to ask the senator if it would comport with his convenience that he resume tomorrow, and that we at this time, at 6 o'clock, turn to some other business, perchance an executive session, on the motion of the senator from Georgia, and that the senator from North Dakota resume tomorrow, if he is at the stopping point of his speech now."

Of course, the senate could not resist an appeal like that.

They Cannot Hear.

Outside of the set speeches a dozen times a day is heard the expression: "I cannot hear the senator." This is due to the confusion on the floor of the senate which prevails to a greater extent than ever before. The stenographers are not privileged to make senators restate their remarks, and so they have to guess at what is said. The other day three senators rose one after another and had the record corrected on account of being misquoted by reason of so much confusion on the floor of the senate and the hum of conversation in the galleries.

Mann, the "Law Giver."

Next to Moses Jim Mann has the record, although I have not heard that Mann has conceded anything to the Bible "Law Giver." Speaking in the house, the minority leader said: "I believe I have written more laws upon the statute books than any other member of this or the other house. I have had charge of more important bills in this house than any other member." He was emphasizing the fact that he had never come in contact with lobbyists during all his important work in congress.

I. W. W. Camp.

Minot, N. D., Aug. 13.—Fifty-nine men who said they were Industrial Workers of the World were driven out of town by Sheriff Ed Kelly and a posse of eighteen armed deputies. The men had a camp in the woods along the Soo railroad tracks. They had erected about twenty huts, made of straw, blankets and canvas. The men said they were sent to Minot by I. W. W. leaders to take part in the battle for free speech. Jack Law, I. W. W. organizer, tried to prevent the deportation by telling the sheriff he had obtained a writ from the court giving the men the right to stay in Minot.

The I. W. W.'s were marched nine miles west to Burlington and were warned to stay away from Minot. They told the sheriff and his posse that they would return to Minot.

FARLEY IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Lies on Cot in Open Air Near Empire Race Track.

Yonkers, N. Y., Aug. 13.—James Farley, the horseman, for many years known as a professional strikebreaker, has since last Thursday been lying on a cot in the open air near his racing stable at the Empire track here. It is said his condition is so serious that physicians thought it would be dangerous to take him back to his New York hotel.

Farley has been ill for several weeks, but on Thursday he insisted on being taken to the Greater New York fair at the Empire track, where some of his horses were entered. After the races he suffered a relapse and it was decided to keep him there until he regained enough strength to return to New York city.

John Lind Calls on Mexican
Foreign Minister.

FIRST STEP IN HIS PROGRAM

News From Mexico City Encourages
Washington Officials, Who Feel That Some Progress Has Been Made Toward Quiet and Peaceful Settlement of Revolutionary Troubles.

Washington, Aug. 13.—News from Mexico City that John Lind, personal representative of President Wilson, and Frederic Gamboa, Mexican minister of foreign relations, had established unofficial relations by a personal meeting brought encouragement to administration officials here.

It was felt that the first step in the program of the American government to throw its influence in the direction of a quiet and peaceful settlement of the revolutionary troubles had succeeded.

The incident, however, it was learned from official sources, will not change the procedure outlined to Mr. Lind before he left Washington.

He will submit all his representations to Charge O'Shaughnessy, who will transmit them in accordance with diplomatic proprieties to the Mexican minister of foreign relations.

It has been left entirely to Mr. Lind's discretion upon whom to call. While there is nothing in Mr. Lind's instructions which would prevent him from calling on Provisional President Huerta it is not regarded that he would do so unless the latter had indicated his desire to receive the unofficial envoy.

The statement of the British government, explaining that it as well as Germany and France had recognized the Huerta government after Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson had made a congratulatory speech to President Huerta, encouraged administration officials to believe that the foreign powers would give their moral support to the efforts of President Wilson through constitutional processes to influence the restoration of peace in Mexico.

EUROPEAN CONCERT IN TUNE

But Powers May Intervene in Turkey
If Provoked.

London, Aug. 13.—The concert of Europe in splendid tune, according to Sir Edward Grey, who, however, hinted in the house of commons that it was possible that one of the great powers might intervene in Turkey if provoked. The foreign secretary said:

"We have reached a stage at which the concert of Europe is so firmly established that the adjournment of the ambassadorial conference can raise no doubt regarding the health and wellbeing of the concert. We have reached an agreement on the subjects of Albania and the islands in the Aegean sea."

An international commission of control, Sir Edward explained, will set up an autonomous state of Albania under a prince to be selected by the European powers, while, regarding the Aegean islands, the powers, including Italy, had adopted the self-denying ordinance that none of the islands shall be retained by them.

SCHRAK CAN'T QUIT ASYLUM

Roosevelt's Assailant Must Defend Interests Through Counsel.

Oshkosh, Wis., Aug. 13.—Dr. Adin Sherman, superintendent of the Northern Hospital for the Insane, said that John Schrank, who attempted to assassinate Theodore Roosevelt in Milwaukee, will not be removed from the hospital except upon order of the municipal court from which he was committed.

Schrank is involved in bankruptcy proceedings in New York city and a foreclosure has been started on a flat building which is mortgaged.

Dr. Sherman says Schrank may see an attorney and that he may arrange to be represented in the proceedings.

CIRCUS TRAIN WRECK FATAL

Forty-two Injured, Three Fatally, in Collision at Richfield, Neb.

Omaha, Aug. 13.—Thirteen persons, all circus employees, whose train was struck at Richfield, Neb., by a Rock Island passenger equipment train returning from the Denver convalescent hospital in this city, all suffering fatal or serious injuries. At the hospital it was stated that three would die.

Twenty-nine other injured also were brought to Omaha. The injuries of these consisted of bruises and cuts.

The circus train was pulling onto the side track at Richfield, but had not cleared the main line when the passenger train struck it.

President Pardons Convict.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Convicted of the innocence of Lawrence Golden of Omaha, who is serving a life term for the holdup of a Union Pacific train near Omaha in November, 1909, when a mail car was robbed and the mail clerks injured, President Wilson granted the prisoner a full pardon. Recently two of Golden's alleged confederates confessed, exonerating him.

CLAYTON IS NAMED SENATOR

Member of Congress From Alabama District Appointed.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 13.—Henry D. Clayton, member of congress from the Third district of Alabama, was named by Governor O'Neal as United States senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Joseph F. Johnston.

Mr. Clayton accepted the appointment and announced that he would leave for Washington at once to present his credentials to the senate.

He will not resign his seat in the house until after he is seated in the senate.

SUFFRAGE CAUSES
WOMEN TO HESITATEMay Not Form National Catholic
Women's League.

Milwaukee, Aug. 13.—The formation of a national Catholic Women's league, after a strenuous campaign of two years and after receiving the approval of Archbishop Messmer of Milwaukee, almost was given a sudden blow here when it was reported that the women's delegates voted behind closed doors not to form a league, but to remain members of the American Federation of Catholic Societies, an organization which embodies both men and women.

The decision of the women, it is said, was the result of a stormy session in which the vote was close.

Archbishop Messmer's decree that woman suffrage must not be discussed in the meetings is said to be the chief reason for the split. A majority of the delegates to the meeting are reported to have been in favor of the woman suffrage.

The decision of the women was a surprise to the vast number of Catholic delegates and dignitaries here attending the twelfth annual convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies.

Socialism, immoral dances, anti-Catholic press reports and the action of nine owners in Lead, S. D., were scored in the adoption of resolutions.

MAY DEPORT JAP MAGNATE

Wealthy Nipponese Is Arrested at Fresno.

Fresno, Cal., Aug. 13.—H. Iwata, rated as the wealthiest Japanese of Fresno county, was jailed by United States Immigration Inspector Brazie and faces deportation on the ground of being in this country illegally.

Iwata owns part of the property in which were housed forty Japanese women who were arrested recently.

He also owns a business block, a Japanese theater and is a director in a big Japanese land company.

CAN IDENTIFY ROSS SLAYER

Missouri Prosecuting Attorney Asks He Has Evidence.

Fulton, Mo., Aug. 13.—Prosecuting Attorney Cave asserted he had evidence to identify within twenty-four hours the slayer of J. Haywood Ross, whose body was found in bed at his home with a bullet hole through his back.

Ernest Ross, an eighteen-year-old son of the man, who is being held for the inquest, declared that when he reached his mother's room in answer to her screams he found her lying on the floor less than two feet from where the revolver with which Ross had been shot was later discovered.

POSTAL INVESTIGATION ON Charges Against Philadelphia Official Subject of Inquiry.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Charges against Postmaster Smith of Philadelphia are under investigation by the postoffice department.

It is alleged that Postmaster Smith is not a resident of Philadelphia and therefore is ineligible to hold the office and, in addition, that he is the general agent of a bonding company which has guaranteed nine-tenths of the bonded officials of the Philadelphia postoffice.

REPUBLICANS SEE
DISASTER AHEADBut Democrats Are Busy Re-
futing Tariff Predictions.

IT'S A NECK AND NECK RACE

Election of 1910 Was Forerunner of That in 1912, and the Tariff Was the Explanation of It—Combining Votes of Taft and Roosevelt Against Revision Is Begging the Question.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Aug. 13.—[Special.]—The prediction and denial departments of the two principal parties to the tariff debate are running overtime. The Republicans are constantly predicting dire disaster as a result of the tariff legislation. The Democrats are just as busy denying and refuting these predictions. Meanwhile the country waits with some impatience the closing up of the tariff discussion and the enactment of the tariff bill.

It is a foregone conclusion that the tariff bill is going through substantially as it has been reported from the senate committee. The changes that will be made are of small consequence. It has been known ever since the Democrats swept the country in the election of 1910 that the tariff was to be revised on Democratic lines, so the country has been aware of what that meant for quite a long time.

Begging the Question.

The election of 1910 expressed dissatisfaction with the tariff bill which the Republicans had enacted. That election was a forerunner of Democratic success in 1912. Scarcely any man of good political judgment expected the Republicans to win in 1912. Even if there had not been a party split Democratic success seemed to be assured long before the conventions named candidates.

Therefore it seems like begging the question on the tariff question to add the votes of Taft and Roosevelt together and assert that the verdict was not in favor of Democratic tariff revision. It has been inevitable.

Who "Wised Up Wilson?"

"The fellow who 'wised up' Wilson on that lobby proposition ought to have a good reward," remarked a member of the house rather slangily. "That lobby talk, more particularly about sugar and the developments that money was spent lavishly to maintain a duty on sugar and also that the manufacturers had maintained a lobby for their protection, was just what was needed to put the tariff bill through the senate. Before that time there were Democrats talking about holding out for protection on sugar and wool, but they gave it up when Wilson sprung his lobby sensation. While it was proved that the sugar trust had also spent money lavishly to secure free sugar, that cut mighty little figure as against the main facts sustaining the president's original contention."

"The Denial Courtroom."

Shakespeare had it the "retort courteous" and the "lie direct." But Senator Stone, replying to Senator Penrose, made his "denial courteous." Said the Missouri senator, "This emphatically denies the accuracy of the information upon which the senator from Pennsylvania predicated his statement." Now, that is real senatorial courtesy.

Just a Lewis Suggestion.

This is the way James Hamilton Lewis suggested that Senator Gronna suspend his speech for the day: "Mr. President, may I interrupt the distinguished senator from North Dakota? Having heard him state that he has not finished more than half of his very well prepared, studious oration upon this subject, I should like to ask the senator if it would comport with his convenience that he resume tomorrow, and that we at this time, at 6 o'clock, turn to some other business, perchance an executive session, on the motion of the senator from Georgia, and that the senator from North Dakota resume tomorrow, if he is at the stopping point of his speech now."

Of course, the senate could not resist an appeal like that.

They Cannot Hear.

Outside of the set speeches a dozen times a day is heard the expression: "I cannot hear the senator." This is due to the confusion on the floor of the senate which prevails to a greater extent than ever before. The stenographers are not privileged to make senators restate their remarks, and so they have to guess at what is said. The other day three senators rose one after another and had the record corrected on account of being misquoted by reason of so much confusion on the floor of the senate and the hum of conversation in the galleries.

Mann, the "Law Giver."

Next to Moses Jim Mann has the record, although I have not heard that Mann has conceded anything to the Bible "Law Giver." Speaking in the house, the minority leader said: "I believe I have written more laws upon the statute books than any other member of this or the other house. I have had charge of more important bills in this house than any other member." He was emphasizing the fact that he had never come in contact with lobbyists during all his important work in congress.

Oakland, Cal., Aug. 13.—That Louis R. Glavis, former land office official, was on an Oakland ferryboat with her when she attempted to commit suicide by swallowing poison was the statement made in an emergency hospital here by Miss Eleanor Fay of San Francisco.

Miss Fay, who at first told local police that she was the wife of Glavis, said later she was merely engaged to him. She said Glavis left her hurriedly after she swallowed the poison.

ESCORT FIFTY-NINE
MEN OUT OF MINOTSheriff and Deputies Break Up
I. W. W. Camp.

Minot, N. D., Aug. 13.—Fifty-nine men who said they were Industrial Workers of the World were driven out of town by Sheriff Ed Kelly and a posse of eighteen armed deputies. The men had a camp in the woods along the Soo railroad tracks. They had erected about twenty huts, made of straw, blankets and canvas.

The men said they were sent to Minot by I. W. W. leaders to take part in the battle for free speech.

Jack Law, I. W. W. organizer, tried to prevent the deportation by telling the sheriff he had obtained a writ from the court giving the men the right to stay in Minot.

The I. W. W.'s were marched nine miles west to Burlington and were warned to stay away from Minot. They told the sheriff and his posse that they would return to Minot.

FARLEY IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Lies on Cot in Open Air Near Empire Race Track.

Yonkers, N. Y., Aug. 13.—James Farley, the horseman, for many years known as a professional strikebreaker, has since last Thursday been lying on a cot in the open air near his racing stable at the Empire track here. It is said his condition is so serious that physicians thought it would be dangerous to take him back to his New York hotel.

Farley has been ill for several weeks, but on Thursday he insisted on being taken to the Greater New York fair at the Empire track, where some of his horses were entered. After the races he suffered a relapse and it was decided to keep him there until he regained enough strength to return to New York city.

FOUND MURDERED IN HOTEL

Toronto Milling Merchant Slain in Bed in New York.

New York, Aug. 13.—W. G. Martin, thirty-five years old, proprietor of a millinery store at Toronto, Can., was found murdered in a room of an up-town apartment house.

The body lay on a bed with both hands tied behind the back and with a gas tubing and a gag in the mouth. Two stab wounds and a gash were on the head.

Every pocket in the dead man's clothing was turned inside out. Martin is known to have carried several hundred dollars and valuable jewelry, none of which was found in his room.

THREE HURT IN TRAIN RIOT

Every Window in Car Broken When Laborers Fight.

Superior, Wis., Aug. 13.—A riot among laborers in a railroad coach en route to Waukon, Minn., resulted in the serious injury to three and heavy damage to the car. Stones and sticks were used as weapons in the fight.

The men were being transported from Duluth. Arguments began among several drunken men and soon all occupants became involved. The fight progressed until the train reached Superior, when the engineer refused to go further. A pitched battle ensued.

Every window in the coach was shattered. A riot call brought a detail of police and four men were arrested and three taken to the hospital.

DEFENDS USE OF TOBACCO

Senator Nelson Scores Rates in Pending Tariff Bill.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Senator Nelson of Minnesota in the senate denounced the high rates imposed by the Underwood-Simmons bill in the lower grades of tobacco, defended the use of the weed, saying it was a necessity of life, scored the cigarette as a curse and charged that the measure would prove a good thing for the Southern farmer and a bad thing for the Northwestern farmer.

He declared the bill had been inequitably drawn and that a deliberate effort had been made to favor the farmers of one section, the South, to the disadvantage of those in all other sections.

REFERENDUM FOR ORDINANCE

Duluth Commission Calls a Special Election.

Duluth, Aug. 13.—The voters of Duluth will decide the fate of the Hicken liquor ordinance at a special election on Saturday, Sept. 16.

City Commissioners Hicken, Merritt, Murchison and Mayor Prince voted in favor of submitting the ordinance to a referendum vote. Commissioner Voss opposed it on the ground that the city cannot afford such action.

The code specifically is aimed at brewery control of saloons.

John Lind Calls on Mexican
Foreign Minister.

FIRST STEP IN HIS PROGRAM

News From Mexico City Encourages Washington Officials, Who Feel That Some Progress Has Been Made Toward Quiet and Peaceful Settlement of Revolutionary Troubles.

Washington, Aug. 13.—News from Mexico City that John Lind, personal representative of President Wilson, and Frederic Gamboa, Mexican minister of foreign relations, had established unofficial relations by a personal meeting brought encouragement to administration officials here.

It was felt that the first step in the program of the American government to throw its influence in the direction of a quiet and peaceful settlement of the revolutionary troubles had succeeded.

The incident, however, it was learned from official sources, will not change the procedure outlined to Mr. Lind before he left Washington.

He will submit all his representations to Charge O'Shaughnessy, who will transmit them in accordance with diplomatic proprieties to the Mexican minister of foreign relations.

It has been felt entirely to Mr. Lind's discretion upon whom to call. While there is nothing in Mr. Lind's instructions which would prevent him from calling on Provisional President Huerta it is not regarded that he would do so unless the latter had indicated his desire to receive the unofficial envoy.

The statement of the British government, explaining that it as well as Germany and France had recognized the Huerta government after Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson had made a congratulatory speech to President Huerta, encouraged administration officials to believe that the foreign powers would give their moral support to the efforts of President Wilson through constitutional processes to influence the restoration of peace in Mexico.

After an intelligent old gentleman at the age of seventy-six dropped dead in his home, his son found over TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS in PAPER MONEY over the old clock which stood on the wooden mantle, surrounding an open crackling fire. Not even his OWN WIFE knew that much money was there. The old gentleman was simply CARELESS. Both the old gentleman's MONEY and LIFE were in danger; for BURG-LARS have a way of LEARNING where money is hidden, and FIRE at any time might have burned the house.

Rau-Olson
Anna Olson and Henry T. Rau, both of Flak, were married Tuesday, August 12th, at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. Wm. Nelson.

Miss Elsie Rau attended the bride and Chris Doneman acted as best man. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to twenty-five friends and relatives. The bride and groom were the recipients of many beautiful presents. They left on the midnight train for a wedding trip to the west.

Obey That Impulse
Instead of enduring the daily torment of weak back, backache, sore kidneys, swollen joints and rheumatism, obey that impulse to take Foley Kidney Pills. They co-operate with nature, which accounts for their success in all kidney and bladder disorders. They are healing, strengthening and tonic. Obey that impulse today and give them a chance to help you.—Advt. H. P. DUNN.

Formic Acid.
Formic acid is a well known organic acid found in considerable quantities in the bodies of red ants and in the poison of bees, as well as in many other places. In concentrated form it is a fuming liquid which is strongly antiseptic and which will blister the skin if dropped upon it. It has little or no place in medicine.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 16 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address, F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, etc. Take Hall's Catarrh Pills for constipation.

Plaster of Paris.
Plaster of Paris mixed with cold water has an expansion of about one-sixteenth of an inch to the foot when hardening. Should this be undesirable mix with warm water or lime water, and there is no expansion.

The Difference Between "The Summer Girl" and "The Summer Woman"
While the former is having a "good time" the latter is too often dragging around, nervous, run down, tired out, with aching back and weary limbs, sleepless and wretched. Often it is kidney trouble not female trouble and Foley Kidney Pills are a direct and positive help for the condition. For sale by H. P. Dunn.—Advt. mwtf

Equal in Earthquakes.
As far as earthquake activity is concerned, Italy and Japan are about on a par.

DON'T use a cough medicine containing opium or morphine. They constipate the bowels and do not cure only stifle the cough. Examine the label and if the medicine contains these harmful opiates refuse it. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound contains no opiates, is healing and soothing. For sale by H. P. Dunn.—Advt.

After an intelligent old gentleman at the age of seventy-six dropped dead in his home, his son found over TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS in PAPER MONEY over the old clock which stood on the wooden mantle, surrounding an open crackling fire. Not even HIS OWN WIFE knew that much money was there. The old gentleman was simply CARELESS. Both the old gentleman's MONEY and LIFE were in danger; for BURG-LARS have a way of LEARNING where money is hidden, and FIRE at any time might have burned the house.

Berg-Nelson

A pretty home wedding was solemnized yesterday at high noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Nelson, 2002 Wyoming avenue, when their daughter, Florence Nelson, was united in marriage to Algot Berg, of Ironton, Minn. The Rev. John D. A. Idstrom of Hibbing, Minn., officiated. The rooms of the Nelson home were prettily decorated with pink and white carnations.

The bride wore a gown of white French embroidery and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. She was attended by two bridesmaids, Miss Margaret Berg, who wore a dainty white gown, and Miss Myrtle Berg, who as attired in an Alice blue voile gown. Both bridesmaids carried white carnations. The groom's attendants were Arthur Nelson and Carl Berglund.

The ceremony was followed by a wedding dinner served to the immediate relatives of the two families. The tables were centered with white carnations and roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Berg left on the afternoon train for Ironton, Minn., where the groom is engaged in the real estate business.

Both are popular Billings Park young people, having made their home in that city since childhood. They enjoy the acquaintance of a large circle of friends here. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eloy Berg of 1613 Iowa avenue.—Superior Telegram.

HOW ACCIDENT HAPPENED

E. W. Lynch Explains How His Car Was Wrecked and the Three Occupants Injured

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Lynch of Minneapolis, and their niece, Miss Ellen Armstrong, of Bowhus, narrowly escaped with their lives Sunday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding between the reformatory and the city limits ran into a ditch and turned turtle. The embankment, which was about eight feet deep, was sufficient to turn the car back on its wheel and it is believed that this is all that saved them probably more serious injury.

The three people were brought to St. Raphael's hospital and a physician examined their injuries. He discovered that none of the three had sustained broken bones, scalp wounds and abrasions being the most serious hurts. It was said by the physician today that the three would probably be dismissed at the hospital today and allowed to proceed on their journey. They will continue by train, as the car in which they were riding is a complete wreck, both front wheels, the top, hood, windshield and fenders being smashed.

Mr. Lynch said that the party was traveling from Brainerd, where they had been visiting relatives, to Minneapolis. They passed through St. Cloud during the afternoon and when they had gone a few miles out he observed that the steering gear was defective. He turned around near the reformatory and started back to St. Cloud to have the car repaired. He said that he was going at about 10 mile per hour, when suddenly the car lurched to the side of the road and before he could apply the brakes and stop it it went over the embankment and went down.—St. Cloud Times.

MORE OF EVERYTHING OF INTEREST TO ALL

This Year's Minnesota State Fair Will Surpass All Predecessors and Competitors.

EDUCATION AND ENTERTAINMENT.

Valuable Object Lessons in Each of Big Departments and Amusements Check Full of Thrills.

The Minnesota State Fair and Exposition which will be held at Hamline during the first week in September, is admitted to lead the world. This year the managers claim that the lead over all competitors will be lengthened, as the number and quality of both the educational and amusement features will be increased.

There will be more and better exhibits of live stock, machinery, soil products, woman's work, horticultural and floricultural displays, and more valuable object lessons in all of the other departments.

Amusements, which are an inseparable part of this exposition, have not been overlooked. As our universities compete in sensational automobile races on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 6th.

There will be a magnificent society horse show for five nights, in the Coliseum, which will be fittingly decorated for this function, that promises to surpass in brilliance anything of the kind ever given in the North west.

There will be the real thing from Wyoming, showing the dangerous business and thrilling pastimes of the western frontier days. The great show that has been given annually at Cheyenne and has attracted nation-wide attention, will be moved to the Minnesota fair grounds for the week, and will be the great night show attraction in front of the grandstand.

There will be the most dazzling display of fireworks ever seen in the Northwest, a finale of each evening's entertainment.

There will be humorous and thrilling free acts in front of the grandstand, both in the afternoon and evening.

There will be shows of various kinds on the grounds near the lagoon, and many amusement features not yet arranged for.

There will be special events and features to interest the children, especially on Monday, Sept. 1, when the have their entertainments and athletic games, our common schools their playgrounds, our churches their social functions, so the State Fair has its amusements. Everywhere serious work is closely connected with inspiring play.

At the Minnesota Fair next September, probably four hundred thousand people will gather to seek information, to rub elbows with their fellows, and to enjoy the varied amusement offerings.

Some of the Attractions.

There will be good music everywhere on the grounds, beginning with a sacred concert Sunday afternoon, August 31st. The musical entertainment will be furnished by seven great bands and three orchestras.

There will be $27,500 worth of championship horse racing during the first five afternoons of the week, and the speed demons of the world will little folks will be admitted free, if accompanied by their parents, and will be royally entertained.

There will be, in short, exciting entertainment for every hour of every day from Monday morning until Saturday night, September 1 to September 6.

Do the people want this sort of thing?

Here's the answer. Last year, in six days, 372,805 people passed through the main gate turnstiles. During the same period the paid attendance at the grandstand was as follows:

	Day	Night
Monday	13,451	14,120
Tuesday	8,431	8,127
Wednesday	8,124	10,357
Thursday	8,605	12,357
Friday	6,296	10,469
Saturday	30,572	11,004

Mechanism of the Ear.

Comparatively few people thoroughly realize what a delicate and sensitive structure the human ear really is. That which we ordinarily designate so is, after all, only the outer porch of a series of winding passages which, like the lobbies of a great building, lead from the world without to the world within. Certain of these passages contain liquid, and their membranes are stretched like parchment curtains across the corridor of different places and can be thrown into vibrations or made to tremble like the head of a drum or as the surface of a tambourine does when struck with a stick or with the fingers. Between two or three parchment-like curtains a chain of very small bones extends, which serves to tighten or relax these membranes and to communicate vibrations to them. In the innermost place of all a row of white threads, called nerves, stretches like the strings of a piano from the last point to which the tremblings or thrillings reach and pass inward to the brain.

Keeps Tab on the Shipowners.

The captains' register at Lloyd's, the great English insurance concern, has aptly been described as the biographical dictionary of the whole of the certificated commanders of the British mercantile marine. In the register are entered the date and place of the worthy skipper's birth, the record of his progress at sea, the ships he has commanded and the ships, if he has been unfortunate, that he has lost.

There is also another register, a confidential index of British shipowners and the history of their ships, the number of shares held by the owners, the trade of the ships during the year, the accidents which have befallen them and other important information. If a firm loses ship after ship, if the entries "foundered," "wrecked" and "missing" appear in succession against the names of their vessels, here is a moral to be drawn by the broker and underwriter.

Medical Ethics in China.

In an article in the Journal of Race Development on the practice of medicine in China, Dr. C. W. Young of the Union Medical college of Peking quotes this from a work on medical ethics:

"When a patient is severely ill treat him as thou wouldst wish to be treated thyself. If thou art called to a consultation go at once, and do not delay. If he ask thee for medicine give it to him at once, and do not ask if he be rich or poor. Use thy heart always to save life and to please all. So will thine own happiness be exalted. In the midst of the darkness of the world be sure there is some one who is protecting thee. When thou art called to an acute illness and thinkest with all thy might of nothing but making money out of the patient, if thy heart be not filled with love of thy neighbor, be sure that in the world there is some one who will punish thee."

Early New York.

New York city had become one of the most important places on the coast before 1750. Its great advantages were its fine harbor and the noble river which emptied into it. The other towns on the coast were shut off from the far west by the Appalachian mountains or the Alleghenies, which follow the Atlantic coast at a distance of 100 to 200 miles from it from Georgia to Maine. But the Hudson river broke through this barrier and gave New York easy access to Canada and the profitable Indian trade. In 1697 the city contained about 4,300 inhabitants, about one-third being slaves. It extended from the Battery to a palisaded wall, where Wall street now runs. All above Wall street was in the country. The population grew to about 8,500 in 1730 and about 12,000 in 1750.

Test For Silk Goods.

There is a simple method of finding out whether a piece of silk goods has been adulterated or weighted, as the manufacturers call it, with tin, and that is to cut off a small sample and burn it. Pure silk is animal matter, just as feathers or hair, made, as every one knows, by the silkworm. Now, if pure silk is burned it will instantly curl up into a crisp mass, just as a burnt hair or feather will do, but if the silk goods has been adulterated with from 90 to 75 per cent of tin it will not do this. It will leave an ash in the semblance of the fabric, much as a burned piece of newspaper will leave an ash that still shows the printing. The harder and more firm this ash the more tin there was in the silk. —New York American.

House of Retired Wives.

One of the most interesting houses we saw in Algiers was the "House of the Retired Wives."

It stands directly opposite the Catholic cathedral, which was once the palace of the bey; and the House of the Retired Wives is now occupied by the archbishop.

When the bey was supreme in Algiers, before the intervention of France, the palace contained several hundred wives. And as new ones were frequently added, old ones had to be retired. So as a wife became superfluous or undesired, for any reason, she was sent across the street, where she had much more freedom than in the bey's palace; for there she was supposed to keep to her own apartments and not wander about at will. In the House of the Retired Wives she could move about at will.

She left all jewels and valuable presents which the bey had bestowed upon her in the palace for her successors, but she was fed and clothed until she died in her new home. —National Magazine.

Whirlpool Suggested Silence.

Mr. Maxim had been working on the development of automobile engine mufflers for some time before he thought of a silence in connection with a gun. In addition to this was the inventor's desire to enjoy target practice without creating a disturbance. Experiment ensued, covering a couple of years and all kinds of valves, vents, bypasses, expansion chambers, etc., but without success. One morning after his bath the inventor noticed the small whirlpool over the drain hole, the action of which retards the egress of the water. It does not silence it (as this phenomenon is usually accompanied by a more or less pronounced sucking sound), but in a gun the noise of firing is caused by the sudden egress of the gases, and if these could in the same way be slowed down the noise would in proportion be decreased. Acting on this suggestion, a little tube was then made, constructed so as to induce a whirlpool in the escaping gases from the gun. This, when tried, was a success. —American Machinist.

An Unworthy Peer.

In "The Memoirs of William Hickey, 1749 to 1775," we read that Lord Littleton was a professed gamester and "the meanest wretch in existence." "I was attending an appeal in the house of lords," says the author, "when Lord Littleton, passing through the lobby, said to the head doorkeeper, 'Can you lend me a cambric handkerchief? My rascal has neglected to put one in my pocket.' The man abruptly refused and added, in the strong language of the day, 'I'll be — if your lordship shall rob me of any more; you have had two already.' Another time Lord Littleton grossly abused his coachman for being ten minutes late with the carriage. 'You scoundrel,' said he, after a volley of oaths, 'did I not order you to be at the Savoir Vivre a quarter before 7? Yes, my lord,' said the man, 'and I was not ten minutes after the time.' 'Blank — blank — blank — blank, you rascal. In those ten minutes I lost 2,000 guineas!'"

A Fine Flow of Speech.

A native lawyer was defending a lady client in one of the Madras courts. The lady was accused of assault, but the man of law endeavored to show that she herself had been assaulted and had suffered damage on the most conspicuous feature of her countenance.

"My learned friend," he said, "with mere wind from a teapot thinks to browbeat me from my legs. He runs amuck upon the sheet anchors of my case. My poor client has been deprived of some of her valuable leather (skin), the leather of her nose. Until we are told what became of my client's leather nose the witness cannot be believed. He cannot be allowed to raise a castle in the air by beating upon a bush." —London Mail.

Highbrows.

Will Irwin, the magazine writer, is credited with the invention of the word "highbrow." It was coined to express a blend of "snob" and "academic." He first used it when, as a reporter, he had occasion to describe the proceedings of societies who talked about the betterment of the drama. He thinks that the word will be assimilated by the dictionaries.

Cheerful.

Professor of Chemistry—If anything should go wrong in this experiment, which is a particularly dangerous one, we and the laboratory with us might be blown sky high. Come closer, gentlemen, so that you may be better able to follow me without difficulty. —London Telegraph.

Bad Oversight.

"Why these pouts?" "Look at this press notice!" stormed the actress. "The critic speaks highly of your genius." "And never mentions my gowns." —Washington Herald.

Two Ways.

"Be mine" is the proper form when proposing to a girl because you love her. "Be my mine" is all right if she's rich, but slur the pronoun carefully. —Louisville Courier-Journal.

Wifely Cheer.

"I haven't a pull with any one," said the unsuccessful man. "Oh, yes, you have, dear," said his wife encouragingly, "with the fool killer." —Life.

We feel most lonely when we feel most selfish.

Painless and Portraits.

"A famous artist has it so much easier than an unknown painter." "How so?" "The unknown painter has to make his portraits look like the people he paints. The people a famous artist paints are willing to try to look like their portraits." —Pittsburgh Post.

An Oversight.

"I want to pay this bill," he said at the hotel bar, "but I think you have made a slight error here in my favor. I've been reading over the extras, and I cannot find that you have charged anything for telling me you thought it might rain."

MORE OF EVERYTHING OF INTEREST TO ALL

This Year's Minnesota State Fair Will Surpass All Predecessors and Competitors.

EDUCATION AND ENTERTAINMENT.

Valuable Object Lessons in Each of Big Departments and Amusements Chock Full of Thrills.

The Minnesota State Fair and Exposition which will be held at Hamline during the first week in September, is admitted to lead the world. This year the managers claim that the lead over all competitors will be lengthened, as the number and quality of both the educational and amusement features will be increased.

There will be more and better exhibits of live stock, machinery, soil products, woman's work, horticultural and floricultural displays, and more valuable object lessons in all of the other departments.

Amusements, which are an inseparable part of this exposition, have not been overlooked. As our universities compete in sensational automobile races on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 6th.

There will be a magnificent society horse show for five nights, in the Coliseum, which will be fittingly decorated for this function, that promises to surpass in brilliance anything of the kind ever given in the North west.

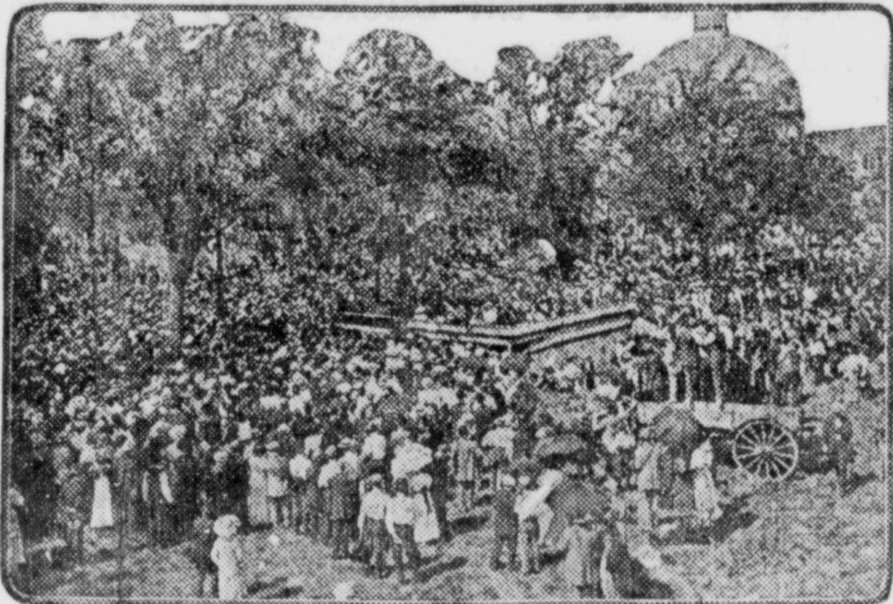

There will be the real thing from Wyoming, showing the dangerous business and thrilling pastimes of the western frontier days. The great show that has been given annually at Cheyenne and has attracted nationwide attention, will be moved to the Minnesota fair grounds for the week, and will be the great night show attraction in front of the grandstand.

There will be the most dazzling display of fireworks ever seen in the Northwest, a finale of each evening's entertainment.

There will be humorous and thrilling free acts in front of the grandstand, both in the afternoon and evening.

There will be shows of various kinds on the grounds near the lagoon, and many amusement features not yet arranged for.

There will be special events and features to interest the children, especially on Monday, Sept. 1, when the have their entertainments and athletic games, our common schools their playgrounds, our churches their social functions, so the State Fair has its amusements. Everywhere serious work is closely connected with inspiring play.

At the Minnesota Fair next September, probably four hundred thousand people will gather to seek information, to rub elbows with their fellows, and to enjoy the varied amusement offerings.

Some of the Attractions.

There will be good music everywhere on the grounds, beginning with a sacred concert Sunday afternoon, August 31st. The musical entertainment will be furnished by seven great bands and three orchestras.

There will be $27,500 worth of championship horse racing during the first five afternoons of the week, and the speed demons of the world will little folks will be admitted free, if accompanied by their parents, and will be royally entertained.

There will be, in short, exciting entertainment for every hour of every day from Monday morning until Saturday night, September 1 to September 6.

Do the people want this sort of thing?

Here's the answer. Last year, in six days, 372,805 people passed through the main gate turnstiles. During the same period the paid attendance at the grandstand was as follows:

	Day	Night
Monday	13,454	14,190
Tuesday	6,931	8,107
Wednesday	8,124	10,357
Thursday	8,605	12,857
Friday	6,296	10,459

Mechanism of the Ear.

Comparatively few people thoroughly realize what a delicate and sensitive structure the human ear really is. That which we ordinarily designate so is, after all, only the outer porch of a series of winding passages which, like the lobbies of a great building, lead from the world without to the world within. Certain of these passages contain liquid, and their membranes are stretched like parchment curtains across the corridor of different places and can be thrown into vibrations or made to tremble like the head of a drum or as the surface of a tambourine does when struck with a stick or with the fingers. Between two or three parchment-like curtains a chain of very small bones extends, which serves to tighten or relax these membranes and to communicate vibrations to them. In the innermost place of all a row of white threads, called nerves, stretches like the strings of a piano from the last point to which the tremblings or thrillings reach and pass inward to the brain.

Keeps Tab on the Shipowners.

The captains' register at Lloyd's, the great English insurance concern, has aptly been described as the biographical dictionary of the whole of the certificated commanders of the British mercantile marine. In the register are entered the date and place of the worthy skipper's birth, the record of his progress at sea, the ships he has commanded and the ships, if he has been unfortunate, that he has lost.

There is also another register, a confidential index of British shipowners and the history of their ships, the number of shares held by the owners, the trade of the ships during the year, the accidents which have befallen them and other important information. If a firm loses ship after ship, if the entries "foundered," "wrecked" and "missing" appear in succession against the names of their vessels, here is a moral to be drawn by the broker and underwriter.

Medical Ethics in China.

In an article in the Journal of Race Development on the practice of medicine in China, Dr. C. W. Young of the Union Medical college of Peking quotes this from a work on medical ethics:

"When a patient is severely ill treat him as thou wouldst wish to be treated thyself. If thou art called to a consultation go at once, and do not delay. If he ask thee for medicine give it to him at once, and do not ask if he be rich or poor. Use thy heart always to save life and to please all. So will thine own happiness be exalted. In the midst of the darkness of the world be sure there is some one who is protecting thee. When thou art called to an acute illness and thinkest with all thy might of nothing but making money out of the patient, if thy heart be not filled with love of thy neighbor, be sure that in the world there is some one who will punish thee."

Early New York.

New York city had become one of the most important places on the coast before 1750. Its great advantages were its fine harbor and the noble river which emptied into it. The other towns on the coast were shut off from the far west by the Appalachian mountains or the Alleghenies, which follow the Atlantic coast at a distance of 100 to 200 miles from it from Georgia to Maine. But the Hudson river broke through this barrier and gave New York easy access to Canada and the profitable Indian trade. In 1697 the city contained about 4,300 inhabitants, about one-third being slaves. It extended from the Battery to a palisaded wall, where Wall street now runs. All above Wall street was in the country. The population grew to about 8,500 in 1730 and about 12,000 in 1750.

Test For Silk Goods.

There is a simple method of finding out whether a piece of silk goods has been adulterated or weighted, as the manufacturers call it, with tin, and that is to cut off a small sample and burn it. Pure silk is animal matter, just as feathers or hair, made, as every one knows, by the silkworm. Now, if pure silk is burned it will instantly curl up into a crisp mass, just as a burnt hair or feather will do, but if the silk goods has been adulterated with from 60 to 75 per cent of tin it will not do this. It will leave an ash in the semblance of the fabric, much as a burned piece of newspaper will leave an ash that still shows the printing. The harder and more firm this ash the more tin there was in the silk. —New York American.

1913 - Summer Clearance Sale - 1913

Beginning Saturday, August 9th, and ending Wednesday, August 31st, 1913

It has long since been the policy of this store at the close of each season to offer to the public all that season's unsold goods at greatly reduced prices, to clean up the stock, so as not to have to carry any over to the next year. In order to clean up our 1913 Spring and Summer stock we are offering it to you in most cases at actual cost, and, in many instances, at less than cost. Candidly, we would rather sell you these goods to you at a loss, and have the money, than to carry them over to next year and try to sell them to you at a profit. All goods offered during this sale are this season's goods and this season's styles and fabrics and include everything in our large stock and are all backed by our guarantee as to quality. It will be to your interest to attend this sale and profit by these greatly reduced prices.

Sweeping Reductions on All of Our Suits

Three Big Specials in Three Big Lots

$9.85 for every suit in the store valued to $15, including the blacks and blue serges and several mixtures and fancy weaves in values to $20.

These suits in every way are standards of Linnemann quality and will defy comparison with suits to be had anywhere else at an equal or greater price. Made in the leading clothes factories in the country from high grade material and by skilled workmen.

$12.85 for values up to $20, including the blacks and serges and a number of suits from broken lots in mixtures in values up to $22.50.

This lot includes Kuppenheimer, Sophmore Perfect Clothes for men and young men, and W. S. Peck Union-Made clothes in the most approved styles for 1913. Made from all wool material and in sizes and fits for every man. Bargains that are beyond comparison anywhere.

$16.85 for values up to $27.50, including the blacks and blue serges and every high quality suit in the store. There are suits in this lot that cost us a great deal more than the sale price but as we are determined to close out this season's goods we will sell them at a loss. Kuppenheimer, Sophmore and Peck Clothes in English and American models with many new and original ideas in lapels and pockets. Two and three button sack coats, Norfolks and in fact a style for everyone. Artistic designs and fabrics of all wool material.

EXTRA SPECIAL

$7.45 for values up to $18.00

One big lot of suits for young men in sizes 32 to 36, composed of suits from broken lots in plain colors and mixtures. These are goodly garments, and for those who wear these sizes, represent the greatest value ever offered by this or any other store. They are suits from our regular stock and are standards of quality and are backed by our guarantee as to style, fit and wearing quality. You can not afford to overlook this opportunity to buy school clothes for boys 17 to 21.

Unparalleled Bargains in Boys' Suits

Mass Meeting Called by Aldermen Betzold and Haake Votes Unanimously in Favor of

STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE

The Meeting at the Northeast Brainerd Hose House Tuesday Evening an Enthusiastic One

The third ward has joined the fourth ward in a public expression of approval of the street railway franchise now pending before the city council. By unanimous vote the mass meeting at the Northeast Brainerd hose house Tuesday evening placed itself squarely on record as favoring the adoption of the Minnesota Central Railway company street railway franchise as submitted to the council by the council committee of five.

The hose house had all seats occupied and many stood in the aisles. The meeting had been called by Aldermen Betzold and Haake. George Halladay presided as chairman and Frank Titus was the secretary. Speeches were made by Tim Toohey, Hugo Schwartzkopf, Richard Isle, Aldermen Haake and Betzold and many others.

The sentiment was for the franchise and when the vote was taken it was found to be unanimously so. All signed the petition which favored the adoption of the franchise.

Alderman Haake said he was in favor of the franchise and would vote for it. Alderman Betzold said he would vote the way the meeting decided and that he was in favor of the franchise.

On motion, Aldermen Betzold and Haake, who called the meeting, were thanked for the opportunity given the people of the ward to discuss the franchise and to express their views.

TAG DAY ON PAY DAY, AUG. 15

Benefit Trades and Labor Assembly Hall to Clear Debt on Furniture and Fixtures

UNION LABEL LEAGUE TO ASSIST

First Time Organized Labor Has Made Such an Appeal and Response Should be Generous

Friday, August 15, will be Tag Day in Brainerd. The Trades & Labor assembly has sanctioned the plan and a committee composed of Messrs A. J. Witham, weldemann, Leo Frazier and Charles Sundberg has completed the necessary arrangements for tagging the people of Brainerd. The proceeds derived will be used for a worthy purpose, the clearing up of the $700 debt incurred in supplying furniture and fixtures for the Labor Temple.

Brainerd now possesses the finest and best furnished labor hall in the state, excepting only the labor halls in the Twin Cities. The desire of the committee is to pay the debt hanging over them. Brainerd can afford to be generous in its donations. It is the first time organized labor has instituted a Tag Day. It must also be conceded that without organized labor at work in the shops this would be a sorry Brainerd indeed.

The Womens Union Label league will have charge of tag boxes and collections during the day and will be assisted by many ladies. The city will be partitioned off into districts and no section will be neglected.

In the evening members of the various labor organizations will take up the work of tagging and at the end of the day an untaged man or woman will be a rarity in Brainerd. Let's all help the good cause along. $700 is not such a large amount to raise. If every one donates something the sum will be quickly made up and Labor Temple will be free from debt.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULTING POLICE

Lars J. Roodman is Arrested for Assaulting and Knocking Down Officer N. W. Olson

POLICEMAN AND ROODMAN FIGHT

Officer Olson Asks Three Bystanders For Assistance and They Refuse—Hearing Today

Lars J. Roodman, 511 South 19th street, is charged with assaulting Officer N. W. Olson and his hearing is expected to take place at 3 o'clock this afternoon in municipal court.

Back of this simple statement is a world of trouble. According to a statement made this morning by Chief of Police S. W. Quinn, who had talked with Officer Olson, Roodman had started some trouble in front of the Holden saloon and was quarreling with some young men at that point. This was between the hours of 7 and 8 last evening. Roodman gave the officer to understand that all the police in Brainerd could not arrest him. On several occasions previously he had told Officer Scott, an old acquaintance of his, that no policeman in Brainerd could ever take him. Olson told Roodman to stop quarreling and continued on his beat down Front street.

Roodman followed Olson, growling to himself and threatening Olson. He followed Olson to the depot as the flyer came in at 8 o'clock. He butted into Olson and the latter told him to attend to his business.

Roodman hauled off and struck Officer Olson and knocked him down on the depot platform. Olson drew his club and went at Roodman. He struck him on the head. The officer then called three bystanders for assistance and they refused to help him. Olson then left the man lying on the platform and went to the business section of the city looking for Officer Mike Setula.

A large crowd had collected at the depot platform and many, having seen the officer striking Roodman, were incensed at what they believed an unwarranted beating up of Roodman. They picked up the man and took him to the offices of Drs. Campbell and Berg, and the latter doctor washed the man's bloody face and stitched up his head.

Chief Quinn saw the crowd in front of the doctor's offices and he, Wicklund and another man held Roodman while he was being patched up in the doctors' offices.

Chief Quinn asked if it was necessary to take Roodman to the hospital and the doctor said that the hospital or his home was the place for him. Quinn then went to a livery barn and Lamb drove the rig to the office.

Alderman Lagerquist, now acting mayor, advised taking him to the hospital and accordingly the chief drove to the Sisters hospital. When they arrived at the door of that institution Roodman objected to going in and the efforts of those in the buggy were unable to dissuade him from his idea.

The buggy was then directed to Roodman's home. Some farmer had been visiting there and he was told to leave, the object being to get Roodman into his home and to bed. Suddenly Roodman ducked away and following the farmer, caught the wagon and jumped in and drove out on Oak street and into the country.

Officer Mattson was detailed to watch the house and see that no trouble started up when Roodman returned. Half an hour later Alderman Hess got a call from Southeast Brainerd that the police were wanted. While Officer Olson stayed on Laurel street, Quinn and Setula set out for Southeast Brainerd.

The Southeast Brainerd club had sent a delegation after Roodman and was bringing him home. Quinn asked George Erickson to stay with the man and he was eventually put to bed and presumably stayed in bed. This morning he sat up and said

GOVERNOR SULZER IS IMPEACHED

Albany, N. Y., August 13—Governor Sulzer was impeached at 5:16 this morning by the democratic majority in the lower branch of the New York legislature. The vote, 79 to 45, came after an all night session and after the governor's wife had made an eleventh hour effort to save him at the risk of her own reputation by confessing that she alone was responsible for Sulzer's stock speculations.

his head felt sore. Roodman worked in the shops for four years and lately has been employed on the Model Laundry company building.

It is expected that the whole assault and the incidents connected with it will be threshed out in the municipal court this afternoon.

COUNTY GETS NO MORE 10 PER CENT

Brainerd's 10 Percent of Liquor License Fees to be Diverted Into the

ROAD IMPROVEMENT FUND

To be Expended Under Direction City Council on Roads Leading Into Municipality

Brainerd's ten per cent of liquor license fees is not payable to the county any longer. The ten per cent stays in Brainerd and assists in the improvement of roads entering into the municipality.

This, in short, is the gist of a decision from Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith's department. In the selected opinions of the attorney general covering May and June of this year one finds on page 46 a review of the new law bearing on the subject, the opinion being given in answer to a query for information from County Attorney E. O. Haugen, and the opinion being written by Assistant Attorney General Clifford L. Hill-ton.

The communication in full states: "You call attention to Chapter 248, G. L. 1913, and ask whether it will be necessary for villages and cities of the fourth class to pay to the county treasurer ten per cent of the liquor license fees paid into the city or village treasury, as heretofore provided for in Chapter 450 G. L. 1909. I am of the opinion that your inquiry must be answered in the negative.

Chapter 450 G. L. 1909, provided among other things that: 'Ten per cent thereof (liquor license fees) shall be paid into the county treasury, and credited to the general revenue fund, and the remaining ninety per cent thereof shall be credited to the general fund of the municipality issuing the license.'

Our supreme court in the case of County of Sibley vs Village of Gibbons, 115 Minn., 56, held that this law—'gave to the county ten per cent of all liquor license money paid into the treasury of any incorporated village situated within the limits of the county, and that the village could not defeat the right of the county by appropriating ten per cent for either school, or road and street purposes.'

The same rule would apply to cities of the fourth class as was by that decision applied to villages.

Chapter 248 G. L. 1913, amends previous laws upon the subject, including Chapter 450 G. L. 1909, supra, and now provides, in lieu of the previously quoted portion of said Chapter 450, as follows:

'Ten per cent thereof (liquor license fees) shall be paid into a fund to be designated as a road improvement fund, and shall be expended under the direction of the common council or governing body of such municipality in the repair and im-

RATES ARE LOWERED BY PARCEL POST

Increase in Weight and Reduction in Price in First Two Zones Will Take Effect Friday

20 POUND PACKAGES MAILABLE

Within a Radius of 150 Miles at a Local Rate of 15 Cents, and Zone Rate of 24 Cents

The merchants as well as people in the private walks of life will be interested to know that on Friday, August 15, they will be able to mail parcels that weigh up to 20 pounds at a much cheaper rate than formerly under the new regulation going into effect regarding parcel post on that date. Heretofore the weight limit has been 11 pounds and a charge of 5 cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional pound, the new rate will be 5 cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional two pounds or fraction thereof when intended for local delivery, and five cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional pound or fraction thereof when intended for delivery at other offices within the first and second zones.

Twenty pounds may be sent 150 miles, or from Brainerd to Fargo, St. Paul, Minneapolis or Duluth, for 24 cents after the law goes into effect, where now it costs 35 cents to send an 11 pound package the same distance.

Under the local rate the new rate will be 15 cents for the delivery of a 20 pound package on any of the rural routes out of this city, or at any point within the city delivery.

The rate for local delivery applies to all parcels mailed at a postoffice from which a rural route starts, for delivery on such route, or mailed at any point on such route for delivery at any other point thereon, or at the office from which the route starts, or on any rural route starting therefrom, and on all matters mailed at a city carrier office, or any point within its delivery limits, for delivery by carrier from that office, or at any office for local delivery.

These new rates open up possibilities for the local merchants that should put them in touch with the people who trade with mail order houses.

Increase in Weight and Reduction in Price in First Two Zones Will Take Effect Friday

20 POUND PACKAGES MAILABLE

Within a Radius of 150 Miles at a Local Rate of 15 Cents, and Zone Rate of 24 Cents

The merchants as well as people in the private walks of life will be interested to know that on Friday, August 15, they will be able to mail parcels that weigh up to 20 pounds at a much cheaper rate than formerly under the new regulation going into effect regarding parcel post on that date. Heretofore the weight limit has been 11 pounds and a charge of 5 cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional pound, the new rate will be 5 cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional two pounds or fraction thereof when intended for local delivery, and five cents for the first pound and one cent for each additional pound or fraction thereof when intended for delivery at other offices within the first and second zones.

Twenty pounds may be sent 150 miles, or from Brainerd to Fargo, St. Paul, Minneapolis or Duluth, for 24 cents after the law goes into effect, where now it costs 35 cents to send an 11 pound package the same distance.

Under the local rate the new rate will be 15 cents for the delivery of a 20 pound package on any of the rural routes out of this city, or at any point within the city delivery.

The rate for local delivery applies to all parcels mailed at a postoffice from which a rural route starts, for delivery on such route, or mailed at any point on such route for delivery at any other point thereon, or at the office from which the route starts, or on any rural route starting therefrom, and on all matters mailed at a city carrier office, or any point within its delivery limits, for delivery by carrier from that office, or at any office for local delivery.

These new rates open up possibilities for the local merchants that should put them in touch with the people who trade with mail order houses.

QUINN PARKER P. M.

Appointed Postmaster of Merrifield and Has Entered Upon His Official Duties

Quinn Parker has been appointed postmaster of Merrifield and has entered upon his official duties. The young man has been in the mercantile business there four years and is one of Merrifield's most esteemed citizens.

Mr. Parker has made good in whatever position he was placed. The store he conducts is a success. The Merchants and Clerks picnic in his town was a great success. Any ball team which has Quinn as backstop is bound to make a good showing. As mayor of Merrifield he has made a hit.

With such a record back of him he is bound to be successful as a postmaster. His friends extend their best wishes and rejoice at his good fortune.

REGENERATION OF NEW YORK BEGAN WHEN MAN SAW "41313"

Actor's Quick Eye After Rosenthal Murder Started Many Reforms.

Civic Pride and Anger Aroused and Police "System" Smashed.

WHAT'S in a number? That is the question New Yorkers are asking just now. For a number—and a simple arrangement of digits at that, being merely "41313 N. Y."—furnished the clue that led to the unraveling of the mystery of the murder of Herman Rosenthal, gambler, and to the most sensational expose of police graft methods in the history of the nation's metropolis.

Had not a passerby noted that fatal combination of a 4 and a double 13 on the gray touring car that carried the assassins of Rosenthal in the early morning of July 16, 1912, it is probable that they would never have been apprehended, their identity, even if suspected, would never have become known and the later revelations of official corruption and criminality never brought out. Again, it may be said that only the foolhardy carelessness of the murderers themselves in failing to change the number of their car is, in the ultimate analysis, responsible for their apprehension and the events that have followed.

Both of these happenings, however, give the number 41313 N. Y. a peculiar significance in the history of New York life. In a sense it marks the beginning of the city's regeneration.

Because of it five men are now awaiting death in Sing Sing prison. Seven, including four former police inspectors, are convicts. A former police captain is dead of worry and remorse. Other policemen, trapped and disgraced despite the power of the system for which they looted and lied, are counting the hours before the doors of the penitentiary close behind them. And others still enjoy liberty only because of the procedure which permits a district attorney to protect informers.

Sixteen convictions or pleas of guilty obtained already for murder, bribery, extortion and conspiracy and at least six other convictions regarded as probable represent only the concrete results of the contemptuous carelessness of Rosenthal's murderers in raiding the Hotel Metropole with the number of their car flaunting through a brilliantly lighted street.

The larger but more intangible accomplishment which traces back to 41313 N. Y. is the shattering of the power of the arrogant and rapacious combination of policemen and panders, a combination loosely called "the system," that blackmailed unfortunate women and lawless men with-greed and hypocrisy and wickedness unrivaled even in New York's experience.

"System" Really Routed.

Within a year from the murder at the Metropole the people and the courts have put the fear of justice into the hearts of the masters and the tools of "the system," have punished many, have driven others from the city or into legitimate occupations and have accomplished all that the Lexow, the Mazet and other spectacular inquiries failed in twenty years to do. Within a year more has been done to reform the police department than had been accomplished in a generation.

That is one outcome of the killing of the little, complaining east side gambler, one phase of the public gain that came of the forgetfulness or the bravado of the killers in publishing their identity through the glare of the Tenderloin. That is the side of reputations destroyed and of lives disgraced, of detection and punishment.

How much some men of courage, ability and energy owe to 41313 N. Y. only the future can reveal.

District Attorney Charles S. Whitman is a leading candidate for mayor because he found and seized his opportunity for extraordinary public service by first dragging the number of the gray car from reluctant lips. Frank Moss for his work with Whitman, Emory R. Buckner for his labors with the Curran aldermanic committee, which grew out of the first revelations made, and more than one other young man owe enhanced reputation and nation wide prominence to the number 41313 N. Y.

The One Clue.

It is not fancy or imagination that ascribes so much to the fortunate circumstances of an automobile number murderers did not trouble to remove or to falsify. The crime and the flight were so cunningly planned by experts in assassination that it is doubtful if the gun men ever would have been identified or Becker, their employer, exposed had not they been guilty of unbelievable stupidity in a trivial matter. District Attorney Whitman has said more than once that the case would have been hopeless if the car number had not been obtained.

The whole work of a year was based on that. If the number had been lost there would have been no arrests hot after the murder; no confessions by Rose and Webber and Vallon and Scheps; no conviction of Lieutenant Becker and of the gun men; no Curran committee revelations, with the consequent convictions of Inspectors Sweeney, Hussey, Murtha and Thompson and of their tools and collectors; no probing of the relations between treacherous policemen and their vile business partners; no such awakening of public conscience and spirit as forced effectual betterment and instigated a series of confessions.

Rosenthal himself, an unpleasant specimen of an unpleasant class, always a trouble maker and a "squealer," always snarling and clawing at the police and his own kind, was hardly to be believed when he made an affidavit on Saturday, July 13, 1912, that Lieutenant Charles Becker, the strong arm squad celebrity, was his gambling partner and promised to reveal to the grand jury the secret relations of police crooks with the protected gamblers.

Rosenthal's Revelations.

Whitman rather shook his head over the credibility of this east side gambler transplanted to the Tenderloin. In the line of duty, but not hoping for much, he directed Rosenthal to appear on Tuesday, July 16, to give the names of gamblers who could clinch the accusations against Lieutenant Becker and other policemen. On Sunday and Monday Rosenthal's story swept over the city. Most people, perhaps, doubted its truth. A few believed it and predicted for Rosenthal a sudden and unhappy death. In gambling houses and saloons patronized by gamblers some who had reason to know Becker whispered that he would certainly kill the squealer.

On the night of Monday, July 15, 1912, Rosenthal took supper in Considine's Metropole, in Forty-third street, just west of Broadway, and nervously detailed his troubles with Becker and his plans for getting even to half a dozen half bored and cynical frequenters of the cafe. He was there until shortly before 2 o'clock on Tuesday morning, when he was told that somebody wanted to speak to him outside. He walked out and was shot to death as he stepped over the threshold. It was exactly 1:57 a. m.

A little was revealed then and much later as to how a gray car had stopped by the south curb across from the cafe, how four men lounged across the street and waited by the door, how the street was unguarded by policemen, how the four rapidly slew Rosenthal and then escaped in the gray car, going east through Forty-third street.

There was no policeman to block the flight. No policeman secured accurately the number of the automobile. There was nothing but blundering confusion until the district attorney appeared at the West Forty-seventh street station, obtained the release of a vaudeville dancer who had been locked up as a witness and from him secured the correct number, 41313 N. Y.

The First Disclosures.

Promptly, then, the driver of the car was caught at his home and arrested. From his admissions it became known that "Bald Jack" Rose, a gambler, had knowledge of the murder. "Bridge" Webber, a friend of Rose's, was arrested. Presently Rose, sick and moneyless, surrendered and told part of the truth—that he had hired the murderers. A day or two later Harry Vallon, an associate of Rose and Webber, surrendered jauntily.

The case began to unravel. It was found that Sam Scheps, a shrewd gambler, had fled from the city after playing a part in the crime. The district attorney obtained the names of the murderers—Frank Cirofici, Harry Horowitz, Louis Rosenzweig and Frank Muller, known generally as "Dago" Frank, "Gyp the Blood," "Lefty" Louie and "Whitey" Lewis. They had got out of the city.

On July 29 Rose, Webber and Vallon made a full confession to Whitman, admitting that at Lieutenant Becker's order they had hired the murderers and had planned the murder and that Becker was completely informed of the progress of the conspiracy, that he went to the station house to gloat over Rosenthal's body and that he paid $1,000 to the gun men. That night Becker was arrested and arraigned on a charge of murder.

Arrest of Murderers.

The arrest of the murderers followed quickly. Cirofici was caught in New York, "Whitey" Lewis was found in the Catskills, and "Lefty" Louie and "Gyp the Blood" were finally located in Brooklyn, where they had been hiding comfortably. Scheps was brought from Hot Springs, Ark.

On Oct. 24 at midnight Becker was convicted after a dramatic trial, in which the four informers told convincing stories. On Nov. 19 the four gun men were convicted. Rose, Webber, Vallon and Scheps were released as the reward for informing. An attempt to kill Webber was made only a short time ago.

Meanwhile the board of aldermen had appointed a committee, headed by Henry H. Curran, with Emory R. Buckner as counsel, to investigate the police department. The first important testimony was given by Mary Goode, who told how she had conducted a resort for years and had paid policemen for protection. Her story was the opening wedge of a long series of prosecutions. These are too recent to necessitate describing in detail. One after another persons of evil life testified against grafting police officials and policemen and laid the groundwork for grand jury indictments and criminal trials.

It was brought out that Inspectors Sweeney, Hussey, Murtha and Thompson had collected graft in Harlem and that they had raised a fund to get witnesses out of the state. They were convicted of conspiracy, largely on the testimony of former Police Captain Walsh, an admitted grafter, who has since died. The series of prosecutions was marked by the determined refusal of policemen to save themselves from prison by informing against their superiors.

Later Revelations.

Here is the list of convictions and pleas of guilty that resulted from the revelations brought out by the Curran committee:

Former Inspectors Dennis Sweeney, James E. Hussey, John J. Murtha and James E. Thompson, convicted of conspiracy, sent to prison for one year; Captain Thomas W. Walsh, confessed to extortion, dead; Sergeant Peter J. Duffy, convicted of extortion; Patrolman Eugene Fox convicted of extortion; Patrolman Thomas F. Robinson, convicted of extortion; Patrolman John J. Hartigan, convicted of extortion; Edward J. Newell, lawyer, confessed to bribery, sentence suspended; Ashley Shea, confessed to bribery, awaiting sentence.

The trials of four policemen and of four others named as extortionists are yet to come.

The best work of the Curran committee was in bringing out facts for the district attorney to work on. The committee's report on its inquiry was not well received because of evidences contained in it of hostility to Mayor Gaynor and Police Commissioner Waldo and because the document had a strong partisan tinge.

Reviewing the accomplishments of a year since the murder of Rosenthal, it is difficult for any one not to become impressed with the singular part played in the whole astonishing business by the number of the gray car, 41313 N. Y.

Seven Wonders of the World.

We have no indication of the existence of a cycle of seven wonders until about the end of the second century B. C. Then appears in an epigram of Antipater of Sidon an enumeration of seven great works, which prove to be the very ones later appearing as the seven wonders. They are (1) the walls of Babylon, (2) the statue of Zeus at Olympia, (3) the hanging gardens of Semiramis at Babylon, (4) the Colossus of Rhodes, (5) the pyramids of Memphis, (6) the mausoleum of Halicarnassus, (7) the temple of Diana (Artemis) at Ephesus. Within the next century Varro, by his leisurely allusion to the septem opera, betrays that the saying had already assumed current proverbial form. Diodorus, in the second half of the same century (first B. C.), speaks, too, of "the so called seven works," and Strabo, a little later, uses the very phrase, "the seven wonders." From this time on, at least, the septem miracula have an assured place in all the common lore of Rome.

Writers of Historic Songs.

Most of the songs that have made history were written by men who had no other claim to immortality. The "Marseillaise" is the only production of Rouget de Lisle which has survived, and "The Wearing of the Green" was the work of an anonymous purveyor of ballads for the street hawkers of Dublin. Max Schneckenburger, an obscure Swabian merchant, who never published anything else, composed in 1840 some verses of which the burden was thus translated:

Dear fatherland, no danger thine. Firm stand thy sons to watch the Rhine.

Little was heard of these until thirty years later, when the Franco-German war gave them an enormous vogue. They were then adopted as the national anthem of United Germany, and a yearly pension of 3,000 marks was conferred on the composer of the tune to which they were set.—London Chronicle.

Magnetism of the Horse.

"There is a side to the value of the pony which I believe is not fully understood," writes George H. Dacy in Suburban Life. "There is about the horse a magnetism, a strong physical presence, that is imparted to one coming intimately in contact with him, as in riding. As is well known, the horse is immune to many diseases to which mankind is susceptible. I believe that the horse, being immune to such diseases as diphtheria, intestinal disorders such as typhoid, cholera and dysentery, as well as scarlet fever, smallpox and measles, and being full of the bubbling over point of vital force, animal spirit or magnetism, imparts more or less of this to his rider or companion and more particularly to little ones who are not in robust health. Repeatedly delicate children have been known to obtain rugged health and to develop rapidly when given a pony."

Boxed His Royal Ears.

The present kaiser in his youth was a frequent visitor at the country home of Sir Hugh and Lady Macdonell. "He was then," writes Lady Macdonell in "Reminiscences of a Diplomatic Life," "a fine young man with a strong sense of fun and fond of teasing."

"He liked our English teas and afterward used to claim me for a game of drafts. In the salon there was a big window with a deep seat that he especially favored. To this a small table was drawn up, and fine battles ensued over the board.

"I shall never forget one occasion when he accused me of cheating. He was so apparently serious that I became infuriated, and, unmindful of his high estate or my duty as hostess, I impulsively leaned across the table and boxed his ears. His sense of humor and the satisfaction of having been so successful in working upon my feelings saved the situation. I received full punishment later, for ever afterward when he met me he used to cry, 'I know a lady who cheats at drafts!'"

Ways of Darkest Africa.

In his book, "Thinking Black," Mr. Dan Crawford, who is held in England to be the successor to Livingstone, gives a curious picture of his missionary experiences in Africa. He helped to establish the mission station at Luanda, built on a cliff overlooking the Great White lake. Here, with unflinching success, he preached the gospel to the natives to him from far distant places. On the woman question he is particularly interesting. He became aware of a secret society which flourishes in Central Africa. It is a sacred institution with hidden rites and ceremonies. Its purpose is to keep husbands in subjection. This is hardly the idea which the civilized world has of the place of woman in Africa, but, as Mr. Crawford says, nearly everything there is reversed, according to white notions.

No Taste For Water.

WATCH FOR THIS ECLIPSE.

It Will Come In 1991 and Will Be a Remarkable One.

For long distance predicting Professor David Todd of Amherst has made his mark, for he has expressed the opinion that on July 11, 1991, on the mountain peak of Popocatepetl or Orizaba, in Mexico, there will be a great gathering of astronomers and other scientists, possibly a greater gathering than any one of the sort ever taking place before that time. He has determined that on that date there will be the finest eclipse of the sun ever known since eclipses were first predicted with certainty, and these peaks will be the choicest grand stand seats for the performance.

As eclipses are the only opportunities for studying certain qualities of the sun and sunlight and as the energy from the sun, which supports all life on earth, is arousing more and more study because of the possibilities for human progress it offers, he feels certain that in 1991 there will be even more interest in eclipses than there is at present.

One reason why it will be a remarkable eclipse is that it will be total for 7 minutes 10 seconds. The longest one ever known was 6 minutes 20 seconds, while the longest one that can ever happen can only be 7 minutes 58 seconds.

Another advantage is that the sun will be directly overhead, so that there will be the least possible amount of interference from the atmosphere. The great interest in an eclipse is the corona, a hoop of light that appears when the moon entirely hides the sun. It is from the corona that many of the most important secrets of the sun have been learned.

Professor Todd has found that in the next 300 years there will be nine total eclipses of the sun visible in Mexico, many of them fine ones, though none so valuable for study as that of 1991.—Saturday Evening Post.

A Tale of Tips.

When Guizot, the great French historian, was staying at Windsor castle in 1840 he wrote to his daughter that he had won over £20 at the Ascot meeting; "Twenty-three sovereigns for me, which will balance the £20 I had to spend in fees to the servants at Windsor castle."

If the number had been lost there would have been no arrests hot after the murder; no confessions by Rose and Webber and Vallon and Schepps; no conviction of Lieutenant Becker and of the gun men; no Curran committee revelations, with the consequent convictions of Inspectors Sweeney, Hussey, Murtha and Thompson and of their tools and collectors; no probing of the relations between treacherous policemen and their vile business partners; no such awakening of public conscience and spirit as forced effectual betterment and instigated a series of confessions.

Rosenthal himself, an unpleasant specimen of an unpleasant class, always a trouble maker and a "snealer," always snarling and clawing at the police and his own kind, was hardly to be believed when he made an affidavit on Saturday, July 13, 1912, that Lieutenant Charles Becker, the strong arm squad celebrity, was his gambling partner and promised to reveal to the grand jury the secret relations of police crooks with the protected gamblers.

Rosenthal's Revelations.

Whitman rather shook his head over the credibility of this east side gambler transplanted to the Tenderloin. In the line of duty, but not hoping for much, he directed Rosenthal to appear on Tuesday, July 16, to give the names of gamblers who could clinch the accusations against Lieutenant Becker and other policemen. On Sunday and Monday Rosenthal's story swept over the city. Most people, perhaps, doubted its truth. A few believed it and predicted for Rosenthal a sudden and unhappy death. In gambling houses and saloons patronized by gamblers some who had reason to know Becker whispered that he would certainly kill the squealer.

On the night of Monday, July 15, 1912, Rosenthal took supper in Considine's Metropole, in Forty-third street, just west of Broadway, and nervously detailed his troubles with Becker and his plans for getting even to half a dozen half bored and cynical frequenters of the cafe. He was there until shortly before 2 o'clock on Tuesday morning, when he was told that somebody wanted to speak to him outside. He walked out and was shot to death as he stepped over the threshold. It was exactly 1:57 a. m.

A little was revealed then and much later as to how a gray car had stopped by the south curb across from the cafe, how four men lounged across the street and waited by the door, how the street was guarded by policemen, how the four rapidly slew Rosenthal and then escaped in the gray car, going east through Forty-third street. There was no policeman to block the flight. No policeman secured accurately the number of the automobile. There was nothing but blundering confusion until the district attorney appeared at the West Forty-seventh street station, obtained the release of a vaudeville dancer who had been locked up as a witness and from him secured the correct number, 41313 N. Y.

The First Disclosures.

Promptly, then, the driver of the car was caught at his home and arrested. From his admissions it became known that "Bald Jack" Rose, a gambler, had knowledge of the murder. "Bridgey" Webber, a friend of Rose's, was arrested. Presently Rose, sick and moneyless, surrendered and told part of the truth—that he had hired the murderers. A day or two later Harry Vallon, an associate of Rose and Webber, surrendered jauntily.

The case began to unravel. It was found that Sam Schepps, a shrewd gambler, had fled from the city after playing a part in the crime. The district attorney obtained the names of the murderers—Frank Cirofici, Harry Horowitz, Louis Rosenzweig and Frank Muller, known generally as "Dago" Frank, "Gyp the Blood," "Lefty" Louie and "Whitey" Lewis. They had got out of the city.

On July 29 Rose, Webber and Vallon made a full confession to Whitman, admitting that at Lieutenant Becker's order they had hired the murderers and had planned the murder and that Becker was completely informed of the progress of the conspiracy, that he went to the station house to gloat over Rosenthal's body and that he paid $1,000 to the gun men. That night Becker was arrested and arraigned on a charge of murder.

Arrest of Murderers.

The arrest of the murderers followed quickly. Cirofici was caught in New York, "Whitey" Lewis was found in the Catskills, and "Lefty" Louie and "Gyp the Blood" were finally located in Brooklyn, where they had been hiding comfortably. Schepps was brought from Hot Springs, Ark.

On Oct. 24 at midnight Becker was convicted after a dramatic trial, in which the four informers told convincing stories. On Nov. 19 the four gun men were convicted. Rose, Webber, Vallon and Schepps were released as the reward for informing. An attempt to kill Webber was made only a short time ago.

Meanwhile the board of aldermen had appointed a committee, headed by Henry H. Curran, with Emory R. Buckner as counsel, to investigate the police department. The first important testimony was given by Mary Goode, who told how she had conducted a resort for years and had paid policemen for protection. Her story was the opening wedge of a long series of prosecutions. These are too recent to necessitate describing in detail. One after another persons of evil life testified against grafting police officials and policemen and laid the groundwork for grand jury indictments and criminal trials.

It was brought out that Inspectors Sweeney, Hussey, Murtha and Thompson had collected graft in Harlem and that they had raised a fund to get witnesses out of the state. They were convicted of conspiracy, largely on the testimony of former Police Captain Walsh, an admitted grafter, who has since died. The series of prosecutions was marked by the determined refusal of policemen to save themselves from prison by informing against their superiors.

Later Revelations.

Here is the list of convictions and pleas of guilty that resulted from the revelations brought out by the Curran committee:

Former Inspectors Dennis Sweeney, James E. Hussey, John J. Murtha and James E. Thompson, convicted of conspiracy, sent to prison for one year; Captain Thomas W. Walsh, confessed to extortion, dead; Sergeant Peter J. Duffy, convicted of extortion; Patrolman Eugene Fox, convicted of extortion; Patrolman Thomas F. Robinson, convicted of extortion; Patrolman John J. Hartigan, convicted of extortion; Edward J. Newell, lawyer, confessed to bribery, sentence suspended; Ashley Shea, confessed to bribery, awaiting sentence.

The trials of four policemen and of four others named as extortionists are yet to come.

The best work of the Curran committee was in bringing out facts for the district attorney to work on. The committee's report on its inquiry was not well received because of evidences contained in it of hostility to Mayor Gaynor and Police Commissioner Waldo and because the document had a strong partisan tinge.

Reviewing the accomplishments of a year since the murder of Rosenthal, it is difficult for any one not to become impressed with the singular part played in the whole astonishing business by the number of the gray car, 41313 N. Y.

Seven Wonders of the World.

We have no indication of the existence of a cycle of seven wonders until about the end of the second century B. C. Then appears in an epigram of Antipater of Sidon an enumeration of seven great works, which prove to be the very ones later appearing as the seven wonders. They are (1) the walls of Babylon, (2) the statue of Zeus at Olympia, (3) the hanging gardens of Semiramis at Babylon, (4) the Colossus of Rhodes, (5) the pyramids of Memphis, (6) the mausoleum of Halicarnassus, (7) the temple of Diana (Artemis) at Ephesus. Within the next century Varro, by his leisurely allusion to the septem opera, betrays that the saying had already assumed current proverbial form. Diodorus, in the second half of the same century (first B. C.), speaks, too, of "the so called seven works," and Strabo, a little later, uses the very phrase, "the seven wonders." From this time on, at least, the septem miracula have an assured place in all the common lore of Rome.

Writers of Historic Songs.

Most of the songs that have made history were written by men who had no other claim to immortality. The "Marseillaise" is the only production of Rouget de Lisle which has survived, and "The Wearing of the Green" was the work of an anonymous purveyor of ballads for the street hawkers of Dublin. Max Schneckenburger, an obscure Swabian merchant, who never published anything else, composed in 1840 some verses of which the burden was thus translated:

Dear fatherland, no danger thine. Firm stand thy sons to watch the Rhine.

Little was heard of these until thirty years later, when the Franco-German war gave them an enormous vogue. They were then adopted as the national anthem of United Germany, and a yearly pension of 3,000 marks was conferred on the composer of the tune to which they were set—London Chronicle.

Magnetism of the Horse.

"There is a side to the value of the pony which I believe is not fully understood," writes George H. Dacy in Suburban Life. "There is about the horse a magnetism, a strong physical presence, that is imparted to one coming intimately in contact with him, as in riding. As is well known, the horse is immune to many diseases to which mankind is susceptible. I believe that the horse, being immune to such diseases as diphtheria, intestinal disorders such as typhoid, cholera and dysentery, as well as scarlet fever, smallpox and measles, and being full of the bubbling over point of vital force, animal spirit or magnetism, imparts more or less of this to his rider or companion and more particularly to little ones who are not in robust health. Repeatedly delicate children have been known to obtain rugged health and to develop rapidly when given a pony."

Boxed His Royal Ears.

The present kaiser in his youth was a frequent visitor at the country home of Sir Hugh and Lady Macdonell. "He was then," writes Lady Macdonell in "Reminiscences of a Diplomatic Life," "a fine young man with a strong sense of fun and fond of teasing."

"He liked our English teas and afterward used to claim me for a game of drafts. In the salon there was a big window with a deep seat that he especially favored. To this a small table was drawn up, and fine battles ensued over the board."

"I shall never forget one occasion when he accused me of cheating. He was so apparently serious that I became infuriated, and, un mindful of his high estate or my duty as hostess, I impulsively leaned across the table and boxed his ears. His sense of humor and the satisfaction of having been so successful in working upon my feelings saved the situation. I received full punishment later, for ever afterward when he met me he used to cry, 'I know a lady who cheats at drafts!'"

Ways of Darkest Africa.

In his book, "Thinking Black," Mr. Dan Crawford, who is held in England to be the successor to Livingstone, gives a curious picture of his missionary experiences in Africa. He helped to establish the mission station at Luanza, built on a cliff overlooking the Great White lake. Here, with unflinching success, he preached the gospel to the uttermost parts of Africa, drawing the natives to him from far distant places. On the woman question he is particularly interesting. He became aware of a secret society which flourishes in Central Africa. It is a sacred institution with hidden rites and ceremonies. Its purpose is to keep husbands in subjection. This is hardly the idea which the civilized world has of the place of woman in Africa, but, as Mr. Crawford says, nearly everything there is reversed, according to white notions.

WATCH FOR THIS ECLIPSE.

It Will Come in 1991 and Will Be a Remarkable One.

For long distance predicting Professor David Todd of Amherst has made his mark, for he has expressed the opinion that on July 11, 1991, on the mountain peak of Popocatepetl or Orizaba, in Mexico, there will be a great gathering of astronomers and other scientists, possibly a greater gathering than any one of the sort ever taking place before that time. He has determined that on that date there will be the finest eclipse of the sun ever known since eclipses were first predicted with certainty, and these peaks will be the choicest grand stand seats for the performance.

As eclipses are the only opportunities for studying certain qualities of the sun and sunlight and as the energy from the sun, which supports all life on earth, is arousing more and more study because of the possibilities for human progress it offers, he feels certain that in 1991 there will be even more interest in eclipses than there is at present.

One reason why it will be a remarkable eclipse is that it will be total for 7 minutes 10 seconds. The longest one ever known was 6 minutes 20 seconds, while the longest one that can ever happen can only be 7 minutes 55 seconds.

Another advantage is that the sun will be directly overhead, so that there will be the least possible amount of interference from the atmosphere. The great interest in an eclipse is the corona, a hoop of light that appears when the moon entirely hides the sun. It is from the corona that many of the most important secrets of the sun have been learned.

Professor Todd has found that in the next 300 years there will be nine total eclipses of the sun visible in Mexico, many of them fine ones, though none so valuable for study as that of 1991.—Saturday Evening Post.

A Tale of Tips.

When Guizot, the great French historian, was staying at Windsor castle in 1840 he wrote to his daughter that he had won over £20 at the Ascot meeting. "Twenty-three sovereigns for me, which will balance the £20 I had to spend in fees to the servants at Windsor castle."
